HOMESTEAD . .

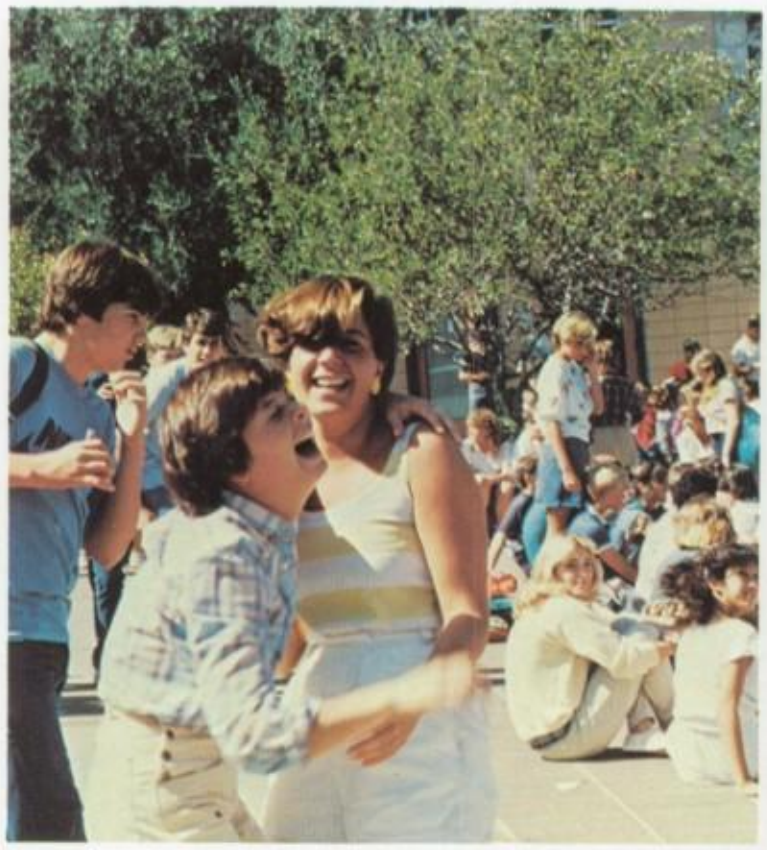
This year, as every year, Homestead had many faces. The faces never remained the same-expressions were fleeting-attitudes and emotions behind those faces changed constantly.

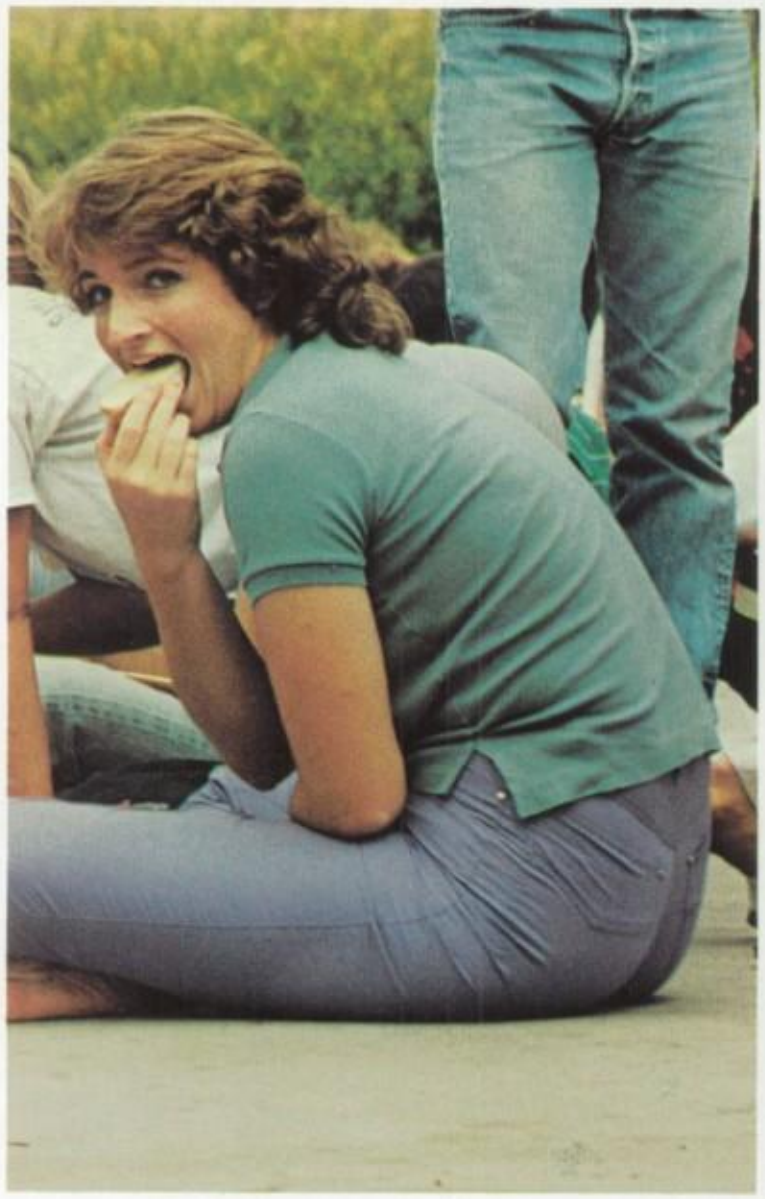
No two faces were alike, but all shared one thing in common. Behind each face were the forces moving to shape Homestead High School.

Homestead had many faces, which varied as much as the students themselves. The exciting face of talent created the imaginative stage productions. Cheerleaders and band members, arousing enthusiasm at games, reflected the face of spirit. Faces of athletes expressed determination and many faces were concentrated in learning. Faculty members added to the myriad of faces at Homestead. Their knowledge prepared us to face the future and their guidance gave us direction for the years to come. They influenced immeasurably the face of Homestead while remaining an integral part of that ever changing face.

Homestead had many faces, smiling and laughing together, frowning, thoughtful and pensive. The dialog that flowed between faculty and students united the voices of experience and youth.

Their constant communication spoke of the environment of understanding and cooperation at Homestead. Spirit, creativity, athletics added to the many faces of Homestead. All played a unique and indespensible part of school. But the reason for attending school each day was never obscured. We came to learn-we sought education, the key to the future.





YOU BET! !

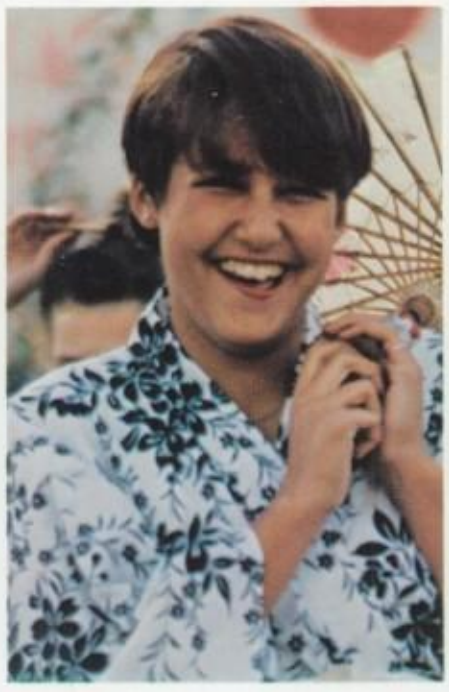
Freshmen Siesta Through Spirit Week

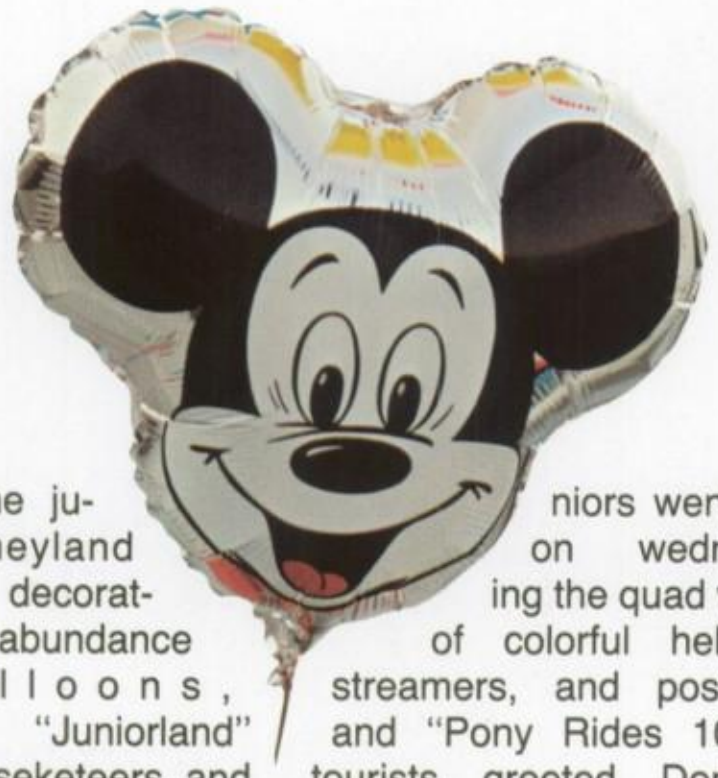
The class of 1987 started out spirit week with the vacation spot theme of Mexico. Freshman, decked out in sombreros and colorful serapes, decorated, the quad with Pinatas, bright streamers, and posters such as "Fiesta with '87". During lunchtime, festive "South of the Border" music was enjoyed by all. At the Homecoming rally on Friday, this class showed their sprirt with a skit featuring two freshman masquerading as a mexican bull. On lookers attending the rally watched the bull 'trample' members of the three other classes, each dressed out in costumes of their own class theme. The freshman class float also was a mexican bull. After many hours of hardwork, the freshman proudly displayed it during the half-time festivities of the homecoming game on Friday night. "Spirit week was super fun," said Joan Freishmann of the class of '87.

Sophomores Look East Toward Land of Rising Sun

The sophomore class showed that they were spirited by dressing up in kimonos and other Japanese attire. Japanese signs covered almost all the walls with sayings such as "Sweet and Sour Power". Paper lanterns and Japanese fish contributed to the decoration of the quad. During the rally, the sophomores sang, swayed, and proved that they were a loud class. JV cheerleaders dressed up in kimonos for their cheers. Rice was thrown and kimono clad sophomores danced to "I think I'm turning Japanese". One spirited sophomore Angela Daline, said, "It was great, I can't wait until next year!" Their float contained a huge Buddha, a large Japanese fan, and many cheering sophomores.

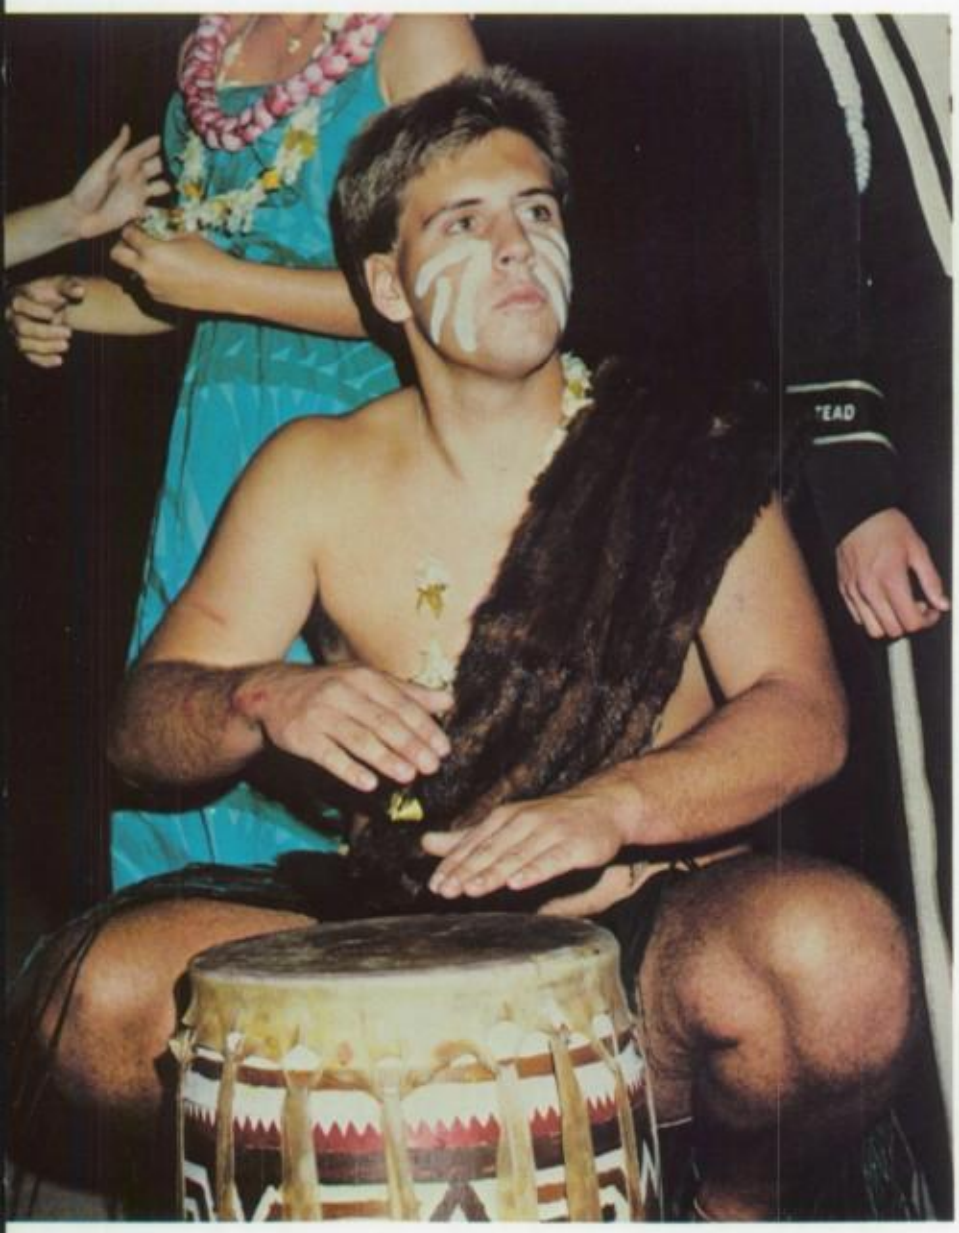


Juniors go Daffy over Mickey



The juniors went to Disneyland on wednesday, decorating the quad with an abundance of colorful helium balloons, streamers, and posters like "Juniorland" and "Pony Rides 10¢". Mouseketeers and tourists greeted Donald Duck, Micky and Minnie, "Alice in Wonderland, Peter Pan, and other Disneyland characters. There were even amusement park custodians on hand. During brunch, "It's a small World" echoed through the quad, and at lunchtime many juniors joined in singing the Mickey Mouse club song. There was also a huge circle of members of this class joining in "hokey-Pokey" in the quad. At homecoming rally on friday, the class of 85 performed a skit in which members of the Mousketeer club and some "Valley girls were each asked certain questions such as "Which class has the most spirit?". The junior class cheered when one of the mousketeers replied the class of '85. At the homecoming game on friday night, the juniors revealed their float to be a magical castle. Members of this class participated in riding the float, enjoying the reward of presenting the float which they had worked on, and displaying what the week was all about — enthusiasm through friendly competition.

Go Hawaiian Motif Captures Spirit Crown For Seniors



Palm trees and grass skirts were all included in the seniors' Polynesian theme. Costumes ranged from surfers to tourists to cannibals and even walking tropical fruit! The class of 84 danced to bongo drums and The Beach Boys, while enjoying the rainbow of balloons that flew over the Quad. At lunch, the spirited seniors ate free tropical food as they cheered on wild dancing natives. During the rally, the seniors yelled and cheered. A two-story cruise ship, lighted and full of tourists, rode down the track at the Homecoming game. Following it was a native hut and a "canoe" both crammed with hollering cannibals in grass skirts and bright body paint. The class of 84 won spirit week for the second year in a row.

Vacation Spots

"Vacation spots" was the theme for this year's Homecoming week, which began Monday with the freshman class Spirit Day and ended with the halftime parade and crowning of Homecoming Queen Wendy Zubrick at the football game Friday night.

Dan Sampson was earlier named king at the Homecoming rally Friday.

Traditionally, Homecoming provides a chance for all classes to compete in a showing of class spirit. The class of '84 snatched first place for the second year in a row. Activities director Kim Miller said, "All the classes did very well. I think school spirit has improved a lot because the junior class won last year, and we know that the best class wins."

Students were greeted by "South of the Border" music and costumes Monday morning as the freshmen began the week with the theme of Mexico. The sophomore Spirit Day followed with Japan as their theme, and Wednesday Mickey Mouse was in the spotlight as the juniors took on Disneyland. The senior class "went Hawaiian" on Thursday, with theme being Polynesian islands.

Assistant principal Pete Tuana says he was pleased with the overall result of Spirit Week.

"It proves that kids can do things if they really want to. Although enthusiasm was strong, not everyone was happy with Spirit Week," Tuana said.

"Some of the posters hung during Sophomore Spirit Day were taken down. Anything done out of taste was taken care of," he said.

Sophomore Brad Wong was offended. "Posters such as "Wok's up Doc?" "Watch out Pearl Harbor, here we come!" "What kind of car do you drive?", "Hip, nip hurray!," "It's getting nippy out here", and cartoons with slanted eyes and buck teeth were offensive and totally uncalled for," he said.

Another problem with Spirit Week, according to senior class president Mike Fisher, was the fact that the senior class was accused of stealing palm trees from Cherry Chase Golf Course.

"The palm trees were not stolen," Fisher said. "A man who lives on the golf course told us that condominiums were to be built on the site, and he gave us permission to take whatever wanted."

Some freshmen thought of this year as a learning experience and look forward to Spirit Weeks to come.

"I didn't get very involved because I didn't know about it," said freshman Sherry Balliette. "Next year I plan to help out more."

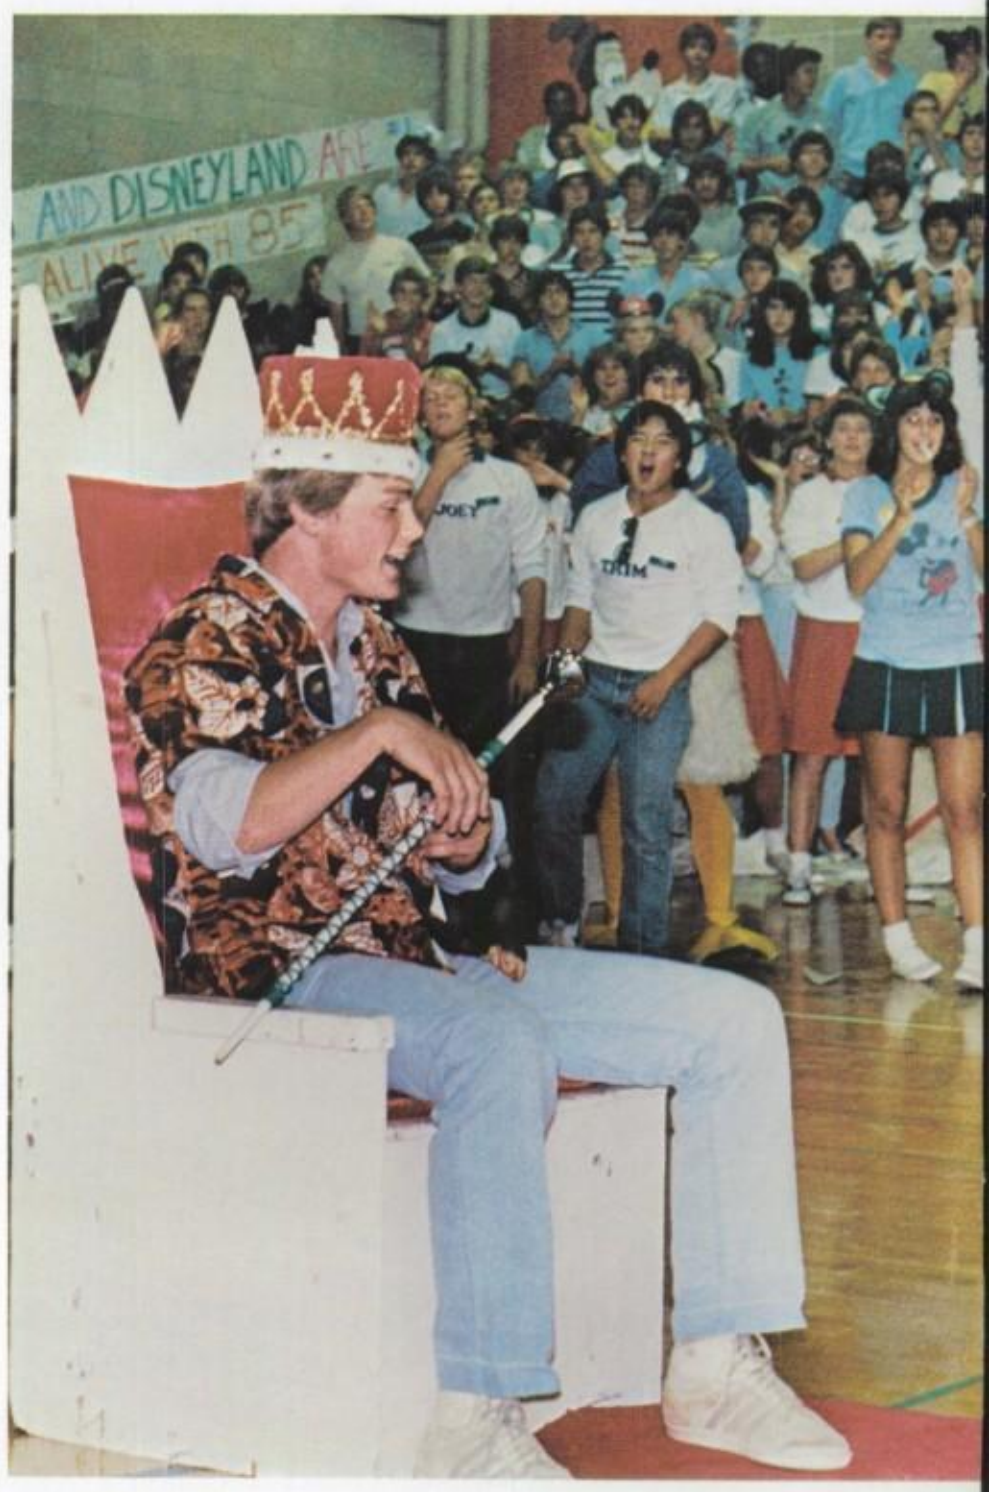
Junior class president Paul Marcy said he could not find any major problems with Spirit Week and expressed enthusiasm toward the juniors involvement in it.

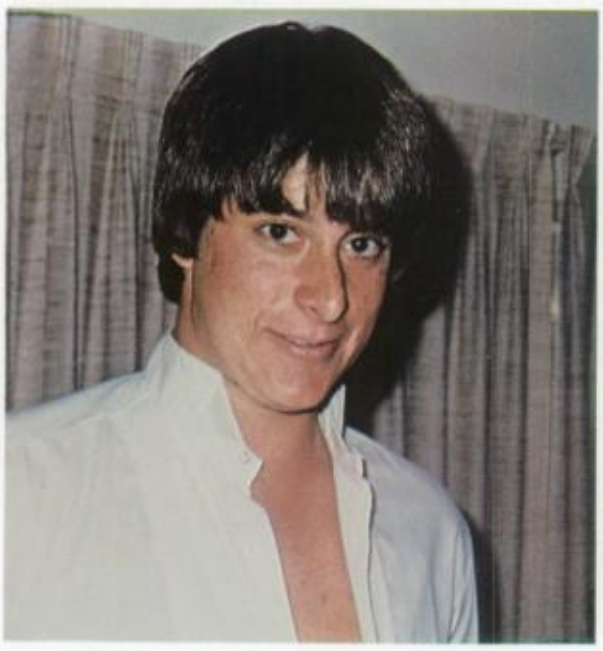
"We had a great turnout," Marcy said. "The idea of a castle for our float was the result of a group agreement."

As well as the junior class castle, floats included the freshmen's Mexican Bull, a Buddha created by the sophomores, and a "Love Boat", carrying energetic seniors dressed in Hawaiian apparel.

Business teacher Bill Carder said this has been the best participation he has seen in Spirit Week in three years.

Thanks to Epitaph Story





The glory of being crowned queen and wearing a tiara is what a lot of girls would like, but with it comes a lot of emotion people would not expect. Knowing you're just as good as the other girls, competing with your friends in something you want as much as they do.

Terrifying moments come not only when standing on the platform, wondering whose name will be called — but beforehand, getting ready.

Hurrry, Hurry! I'll be late! My makeup, Oh No! Nervous as Stacey Nester was, while getting her hair ready the worst happened-her pearl necklace broke. With pearls bouncing and rolling over the floor, Stacey lost composure.

Not only was tension felt by all the princesses but also by their escorts. Senior Rich Graff thought things were going too well until finding, when trying on his tuxedo only hours before he was to appear, the pants were 12 inches too short. But all was worked out. Stacey and Rich got their act together and made the appointed date with the chauffeur driven limousine. Despite Murphy's Law the Homestead Homecoming turned out perfect.

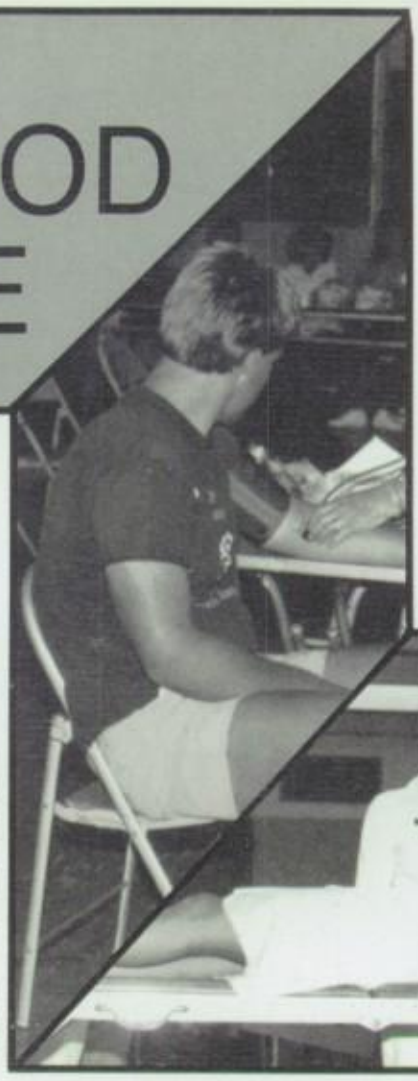
WELCOME DANCE

Those who attended the Welcome Dance, sponsored by the Sophomore class, felt that the year was off to a good start. This traditional dance, provides a good atmosphere for meeting new people and getting to know classmates better. The band, Various Others, played for three hours and the dancing was non-stop. Having a live band was a nice change from a disc-jockey. The dance was a great way to begin the year and all looked forward to the Homecoming gala.

BLOOD DRIVE



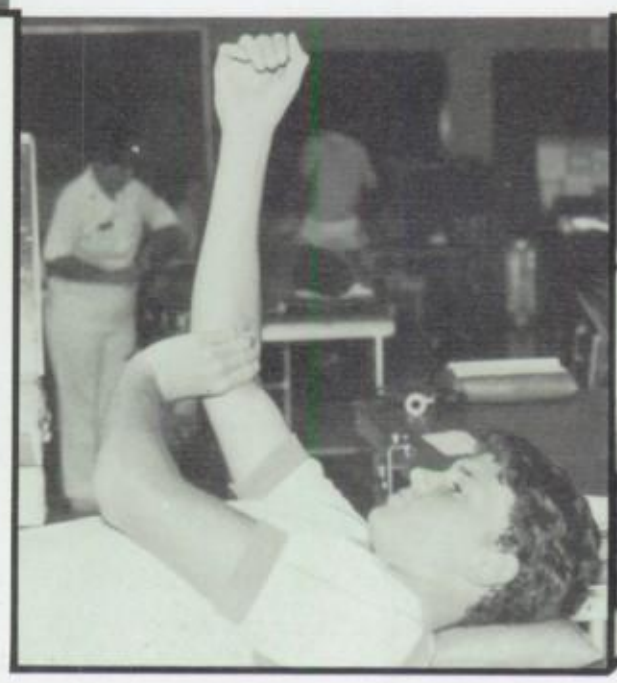
Students Take It In Right Vein

Twice a year, once in the fall and again in the spring, the California Scholarship Federation sponsors a blood drive. One of CSF's goals as an organization is to do things for the community.

Students and faculty are asked to donate blood. Donors must be at least seventeen years of age, weigh 110 pounds or more, and healthy. Before donating, donors are recommended to eat or else they may experience dizziness.

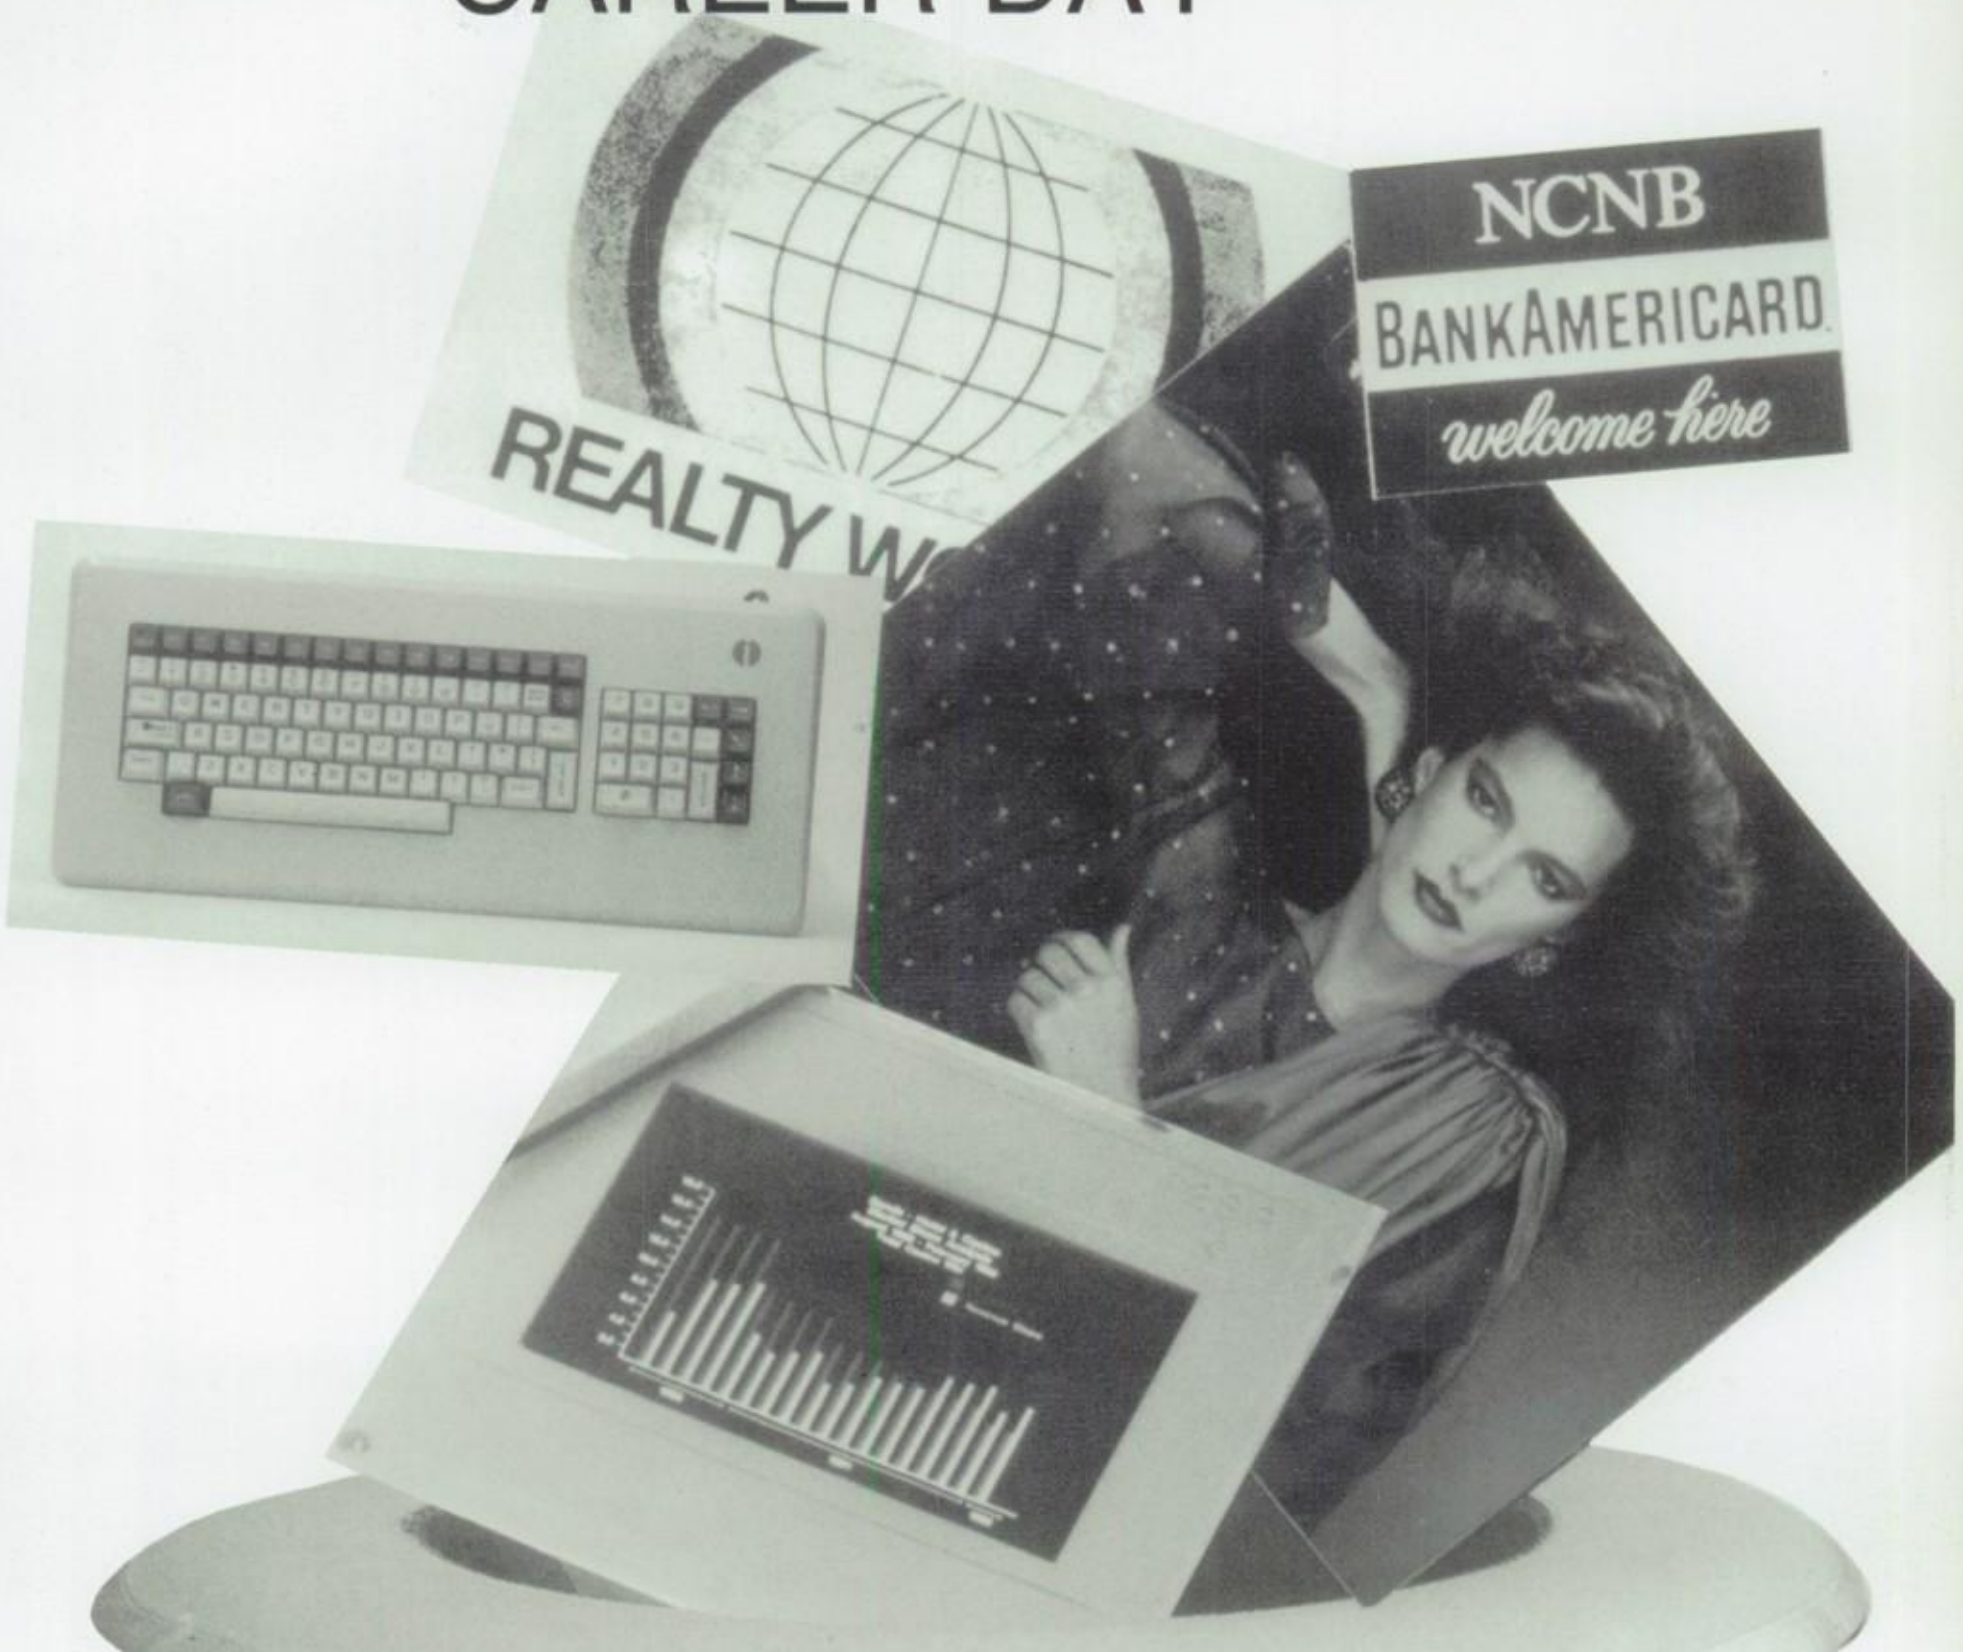
Alot of time and effort goes into the planning of the blood drives. CSF members helped with typing, labeling, and serving soup, juice, and cookies to the donors.

The donation of blood saves lives. Blood transfusions help treat diseases such as anemia, hemophilia, leukemia, low platelet count, and shock. Once again CSF has proven itself to be an organization dedicated to the ideals of service and scholarship.



SKI TRIP???
RIIIGHT!!!

CAREER DAY



The second bi-annual Career Day, November 16, boasted 108 parent volunteers, and offered a vast 74 careers to chose from. Career Day, as described by assistant principal Pete Tuana, is the single most accepted event in the community by parents, students, and faculty alike.

The majority of student reactions praised the 149 speakers who appeared to share the positive as well as negative points of their specific careers. Computer technology, photography and banking, as well as fashion design, law enforcement and veterinary practice were among the most popular and well-attended classes.

SADIE HAWKINS

Hey Guy, Wanna Dance

The Sadie Hawkin's dance was an extravaganza of costumed pageantry; some dancers garbed in fifties apparel, others portraying gangsters, pimps, cartoon characters, and even a few stray cigarette butts. Few felt compelled to conform to the Martgraw theme and all costumes were accepted jubilently.

Many of the over 200 couples present started the evening off with dinner delights and treats for the palate. A few felt the compulsion to drink, but were sourly rewarded for their unrurly behavior by scoldings and sickness.

Once at the dance, everyone was infected with excitement. On the dance floor, students happily sang along, "We can dance if we want to." In the student center they found time to socialize, gobble cookies and guzzle punch. Some rested outside to dry dripping sweat while others remained inside to revel in the wet spray from shaking heads and drenched costumes.

The picture line seemed intermanable, and many became dishearted or disgusted by the wait, missing out on the modern music provided by the Quake. All was quickly forgiven and forgotten, however, in the exuberance and physicality of dancing. Of course some less than enthusiastic participants flanked the dancers in mute admiration of the mass, rhythetically ungulating in front of the eight foot speakers.

As the night came to a close, tired partyers, staggered or hobbled to their cars, some to go home and "sleep it off", others to engage in more sensuous activities. Whatever their goals and objectives for the night, it was a time that those who attended would not soon forget; especially since they recieved their pictures a month later.

— Kelly Evans —

Charasteristic of Homestead's motivated student leadership this year, "Operation Happiness" exploded over the campus with smashing success. More than two and a half tons of canned goods were brought in by the student body last December in the Inter-Club Council food drive.

"I was astounded and pleasantly surprised with the project," remarked food drive organizer Doug Chang emphatically. "There were packages and cans of food all over the ASB bank (where teachers were instructed to deposit their food.) The bank was emptied twice daily, but the food still piled up back there," he added.

Assistant principal Pete Tuana said, "This food drive was possibly the most successful in the history of Homestead."

After a sluggish start, an alert and creative ASB council reacted swiftly to install a second period class competition to the drive. The much vied for incentive was a free, catered Togo's lunch. In the fierce competition that ensued, two classes emerged victorious: Odette DeSousa's Algebra I class, which brought in 720 cans, and John Plungy's U.S. History AP class, which brought in 680. According to Chang, the two classes were considered a tie because Plungy's class brought in the most cans per capita.

Plugy commented, "The real winners of the competition were those who received the food."

The two runner-up classes in the competition were Steve Headley's Calculus/Analytic Geometry class and Dale Dalton's Writing II class which both brought in around 650 cans each. For their noble efforts, they received brownies baked by the ASB's special volunteer corps.

The 5,500 pounds of food was donated to the Salvation army for distribution to needy families in the Santa Clara Valley. "I think a high school has a degree of responsibility to its surrounding community. Certainly, Homestead contributed positively last Christmas," said Chang, "And hopefully we can do it again later this school year."

FALL PLAY

Finding a faculty member with his pants down, a lot of fireworks, and a student actor clad only in a short toga were just some of the things that were in store for those who attended the first drama production of the year, a comedy, "You Can't Take it With You."

The plot revolves around the eccentric Vanderhof clan. Grandpa Vanderhof (played by English teacher Charles Pelton) believes wholeheartedly in fun and relaxation rather than material possessions. His daughter, Penny (sophomore Tina Stafford) writes plays because a typewriter was delivered to their home by mistake.

Her husband, Paul (math teacher Ken Edwards) plays with toys and makes fireworks in the basement with Mr. De Pinna (senior Dave Shodiss), the ice-delivery man who decided to live with the family to relax and have fun as well.

Penny and Paul's daughter, Essie (junior Susie Bradshaw) wants to be a ballet dancer, even though she is terrible as it.

A conflict arises when the second daughter, Alice (junior Cheri Brown) falls in love with Tony (senior Brad Farris), the son of a successful, normal family.

Further complications result when Tony's parents (English teacher Malcolm Langford and Special Education teacher Lorraine Kenworthy) arrive for dinner on the wrong evening and find out what their prospective in-laws are really like.

The play, written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman in the thirties, is the first student-faculty production in nearly ten years, and according to director Shareen Clarke, it had been met with enthusiasm from the cast.

"You Can't Take it With You" was presented in the auditorium November 17, 18, and 19. The production proved to be enjoyable, bizarre, and full of surprises.

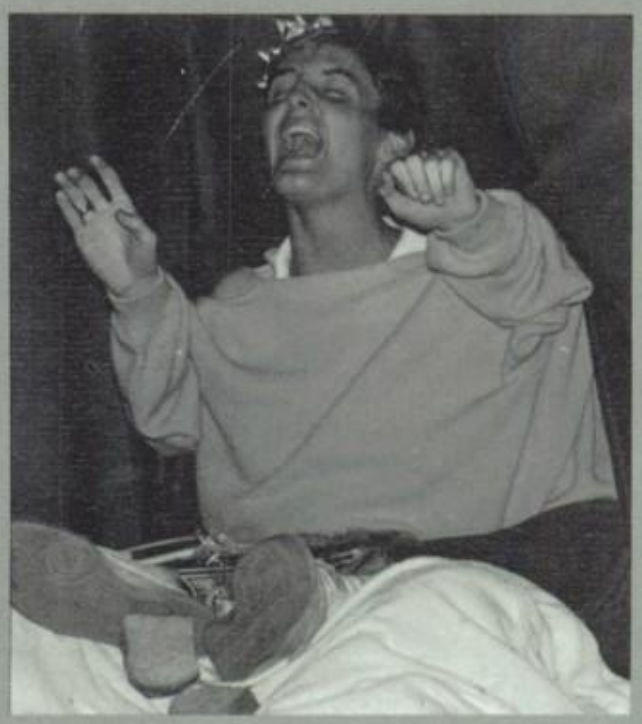
HOOTENANY



There was something for everyone. A tradition that is both fun and memorable. The Hootenany included many different types of acts. They ranged from comedy to serious acting, singing, dance and other very entertaining acts.

In this year's Hootenany, we had a great deal of original, interesting entertainment going on. This included celebrity guests, Sonny and Cher, and Mr. Frietas' missing frogs.

Tony Orlando, senior Dave Shodiss, had a great award winning performance in "Knock Three Times" getting the entire audience to join in. He was accompanied by "Dawn", seniors Sharon Amacher and Patty Kendall and sophomore Tina Stafford, as back-up singers.

A big thanks to Mike Fisher and Jay Komas for planning this enjoyable evening. This well organized event had an extremely good turn out.

Pizza Parties Mean Fun and MONEY

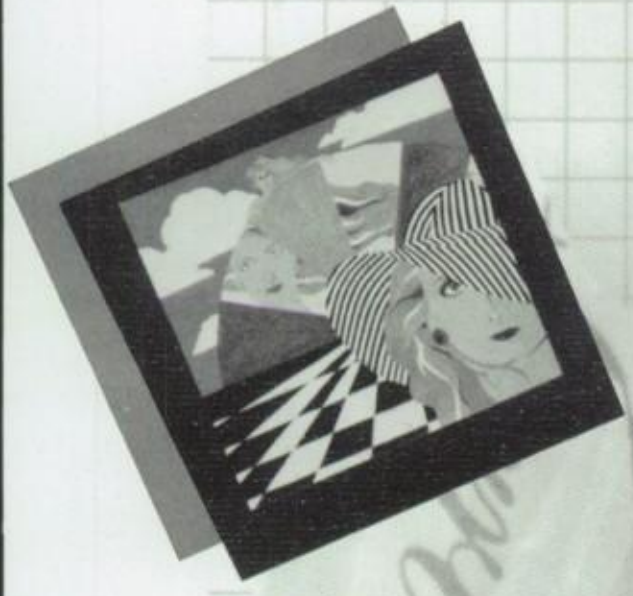
Henri B's may sound like "just another pizza parlor" to most, but to high school clubs it means publicity, fun, and money.

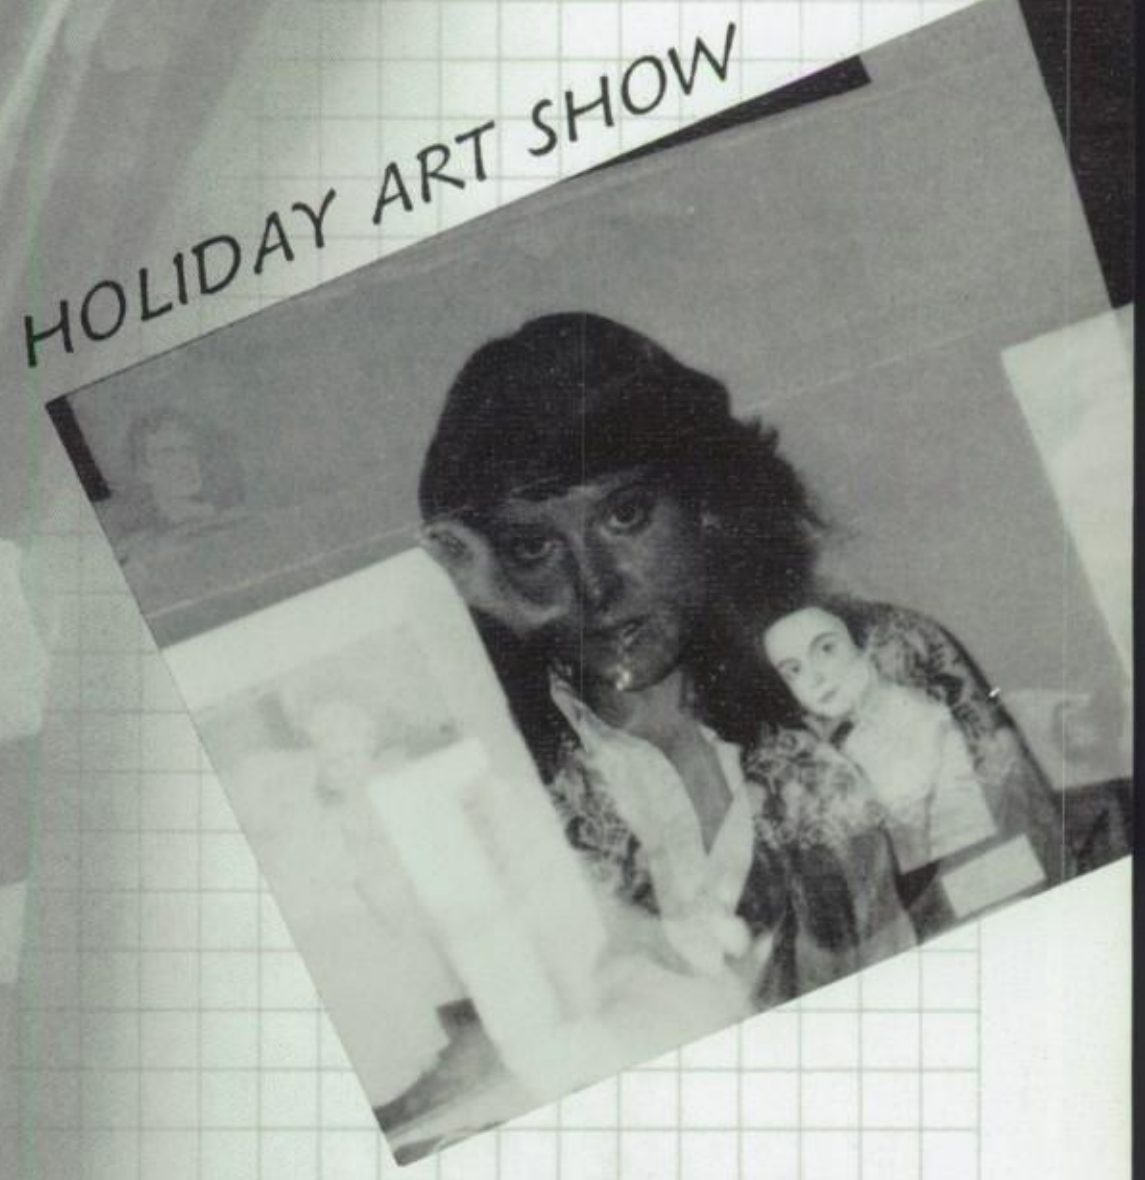
The topic of conversation at everyone's house is undoubtedly "pizza night".

"Probably the greatest thing that ever hit the fund raising world," says one outspoken student.

Everyone agrees because not only does one get the tantalizing pleasure of consuming the finest pizza in America, but on certain designated days, one can also be contributing to a club or group fundraiser. All one needs to do is to mention the group being contributed to and that group gets a share of the total money taken in that evening.

Pizza nights have been a great success for many clubs, mostly the senior class, who is most well known for their domination of the pizza hangout on the corner of Fremont Avenue and Mary. They have been successful at obtaining well over the $100 mark each time. Also, business is promoted for Henri's, too. All in all — a task that leaves "the taste buds and the till" in great shape!





The annual Holiday Art Show was held December 1983 in the art department wing. Art students displayed various paintings and sketches they completed during the course of the semester. Others put a price on their works and students were invited in to browze and possibly make a purchase (all profits went to the art department).

Items for sale included fashion ties, charcoal sketches, and pottery. The art show provided a nice holiday atmostphere with the seasonal decor and Christmas works. The art show was a perfect opportunity for the art students to receive recognition for their hard work and talent and the student body was given a chance to catch up on some holiday shopping.

WINTER FORMAL

Clad in tuxedos and formal dresses, couples waited in crowded lines to get portraits to commemorate the occasion.

Teachers Stephen Headly and Ralph Mann, seasonally dressed in red and green, served as parking lot attendents, and parked student's cars while they partied inside.

Bids for the dance sold at $20 a piece, and were inscribed with the time and place of the occasion for the couples to keep as a memorabelia.

TOYS FOR TOTS

The wood shop classes spent the month of December building wooden dumptrucks for needy children in the Santa Clara Valley for the Christmas Toys for Tots program. The project originated for the previous year, when the wood shop built wooden bulldozers and donated them to the Stanford Childrens Hospital and the Police Activities League.

The success of last year's project prompted industrial arts teacher, Jake Cagle to suggest that it be repeated this year by his classes. The project cost the wood shop nothing this year due to the donation of building materials from local organizations.

When Cagle came up with the idea for the project last year, he intended the project to be not only a public service but also an exercise in mass production and assembly line work. According to Cagle, every student participated in the construction of the parts. After all the parts were made, the classes spent several days assembling the trucks. The plans for the trucks were drawn by junior Mike Amicarelli, who was general manager of the toy production.

The organization of the Pegasus staff and the start of work on the yearbook began in early October. We were off to a slow start. Originally 37 members, the Pegasus staff soon decreased in number to a constant 16 who went on to produce this year's Pegasus.

Many of the staff members were in the Twilight Zone at first. Most were new to the yearbook with the exception of 3 who had previous yearbook experience. They had to be taught the ABC's of yearbooking, which might sound easy but is actually like trying to scratch your nose with your elbow.

We had many complications with the copy of the yearbook but with a little help from our friends on the Epitaph, it was nothing we couldn't overcome. Deadlines were both met and missed then the final deadline came without warning.

Staff photographers were running frantically about trying to get last minute pictures. Many hours were spent after school hustling in layouts and finishing pages. The deadline was met by a miracle which has not yet been defined. It was a combination of Dave Setnicker's cool headed thinking and Jeanene Scott's creativity.

Being the editor has been a very pleasant and rewarding job; unfortunately not an easy one. Nevertheless, we were able to overcome all obstacles and present you with a solid, well designed yearbook. It has been a privilege working side by side with Dave Setnicker and all the dedicated staff members. I would personally like to express my gratitude to Jeanene Scott who unselfishly donated so much of her time.

Perhaps one of the most difficult high school experiences for many students is the taking of tests. Nobody particularly looks forward to them, whether they may be just quizzes or final exams.

Throughout the year students have been 'sweating it out', performing their best under the pressure of the circumstances. Many would rather not have to face this kind of pressure, but there is no doubt that tests are a necessary part of school, however unpleasant they may be.

As the year comes to an end, many students are, no doubt feeling very relieved that these experiences will be ending soon. Everyone is looking forward to a test-free summer!

As Freshmen, our worries are centered around whether or not we fit into the "High School Scene." College seems far away. Career Decisions are vague and unimportant. Responsibility and independence don't mean very much. We are still children.

As sophomores, we start to worry about grades, although college still seems distant. We've established a slightly more secure hold on our social status. We start to enter more activities and clubs. We are less timid, and more mature. High school seems so big, we feel so young.

As Juniors, we have more fun, as well as more worries. By now our friends and hobbies are generally set. We are secure, and involved with high school games and activities. We realize that college is coming and we try to get as much fun as we can before we must be tortured about college or job acceptances. The SAT and ACT make us realize that important decisions should be made soon. We worry about leaving our secure homes and being on our own. School work is very important and we look forward to all holidays and vacations.

As Seniors, we are mature. Our decisions are vital. We can see that school will no longer be required soon. We groan or rejoice over test scores and application replies. Most of us can't wait to get out into the 'real' world, to be independent. Many of us become less spirited about school. College or jobs are more important than who wins the spirit rallies. We are mature. High school seems young and small compared to what is ahead of us.

Spirit? Yeah, we got spirit . . . What's spirit?"

When most people think of the junior class, we think of upperclassmen, cars and relatively sparkling personalities discovering more and more 'awesome' facts about growing up. Well, the truth is ladies and gentlemen, that being a junior is not all it's cracked up to be. Mama Lyon's U.S. History class is not the easiest class to enjoy and pass at the same time, and the PSAT's are a constant reminder of that college decision looming over our heads in the future. So, how can we be spirited during all this?

Much of the Homestead's population will agree that some juniors don't hold as much spirit in their hearts as the senior class, or as much dedication as the sophomores and the freshmen, well, okay-maybe more "umph" than the freshmen — but with the exception of some of the active juniors, some others are rather passive. Juniors did however have a great sadies dance, equipped with KQAK and balloons — everything a high school student could hope for. And the juniors took second in the Homecoming spirit week — just as predicted . . . but something is still missing. Well, don't give up juniors, one more year — this one, better than ever!

Mike McCully: trouper

Mike returned to school in mid-October and has fared very well. His handicap has definitely not impaired his personality or his will to succeed.

Before the accident, Mike was involved in swimming, water polo, soccer and football. But being confined to a wheelchair has not lessened his desire to be active. During the year, Mike joined the Timpany swim team, he coaches a soccer team of 12 and 13 year olds for A.Y.S.O., and he went to regionals in a skiing tournament in March. He hopes to go to Nationals after that.

"He's going to keep going; he's strong," a friend predicted. "I know he's going to do something remarkable." The class of '86 is behind him all the way!

SOPHOMORES ARE PEOPLE TOO

At the age of 15 or 16 years, in the prime years of teenhood; or the beloved age of adolescence as it is so fondly addressed, life is full of love, happiness and that feeling of excitement as the path of the future lies ahead tantalizing each high school student.

Well, this year, our Sophomore year, we're finding that the path has its ups and downs. As we ride our bike to school for the tenth year in a row, we glance at all the juniors blissfully driving Mom's station wagon into the student parking lot, grimacing at each lowly 10th grader as if to say, "I don't brake for Sophomores". It's degrading enough to have every Junior and Senior laugh at the three speed we are riding given to us on our 11th birthday, but to top it off, we are forced to park it next to a vehicle owned by something as decadent as can be imagined: a Freshman.

Was it Shakespeare who said, "All the world's a stage, and the men and women merely players."? Well, we, the class of 1986 believe that Sophomores are considered "merely understudies". At least the Freshman are acknowledged. Be it sticks and stones and harsh words; at least it has some effort behind it. The Juniors are now upperclassmen, the licensed, hard working, knowledgeable — yet still fresh and young class, struts their way through the 1983-84 school year. And lastly, the Seniors. What can be said? It's their last year of High School, maybe they do have a little more class than the rest of us, but still when it comes to the Sophomore class, most teenaged minds draw a blank.

The term used to describe adults when considered below their maturity level is "Sophomoric". Must they demean us so? After all, Sophomores are people too.

BUILDING OUR FUTURE

Life. Heavy, huh? At our blossoming age of 15 or 16, the question of life's purpose is approaching quickly. Colleges, careers, attitudes, opinions — all these ideas are forming in our minds right about now. When asked, "What do you want to be when you grow up?", most of us chuckle. Most of us don't realize that it is something that must be decided, and not just a question thrown in the face of a small child. We must want to be something, right? Well, what about those of us who don't know? For some, the answer is De Anza College for two years; "Then I'll know." But maybe not. We must take time to think about all the vast opportunities within arms reach. Let us not be pushed into anything, let us not just drift into anything. Let us choose. But kids, let's choose. We don't want to wake up 20 years from now and say "Where am I?". So lets think — we, and no one else, are each responsible for our own happiness, our own future. Lets make life worth living.

Frosh Swimming

Swimming in P.E. is something that most every freshman dreads. Often times it isn't the swimming they think is so bad, it getting wet, cold and having to do your hair for the second time in one day. Most people complain about how freezing the pool is, and most of all, how little time is allowed for getting re-dressed and ready to go. Some typical comments one might hear when passing through the girls lockerroom are:

"Oh my god, my hair looks so bad!"

"Move over, you've been in front of the mirror all day!"

"Come on . . . Let me use the curling iron now!"

"Hey, did you see John in that bathing suit? What a bod!"

"Will someone please turn on the *%#&¼¢@ showers!"

Now comes the moment of truth, when all the freshman go walking around with dripping wet hair, and everyone finds out your "true identity" with just one glance.

DISADVANTAGES

Freshman definately have their problems. One of the biggest disadvantages for Freshman is the fact that they don't have their drivers licenses. This makes getting places very difficult. There are various solutions to this problem. Some beg for rides from anyone with a car, some take the County Transit. But most often freshman can be seen in the back seat of the family "land yacht" with mommy or daddy at the wheel.

Another big problem is parents. Although parents are a problem with everyone, usually they are more overprotective of freshman, because of their age. They just don't want to let their babies grow up quite so fast. When ever they want to go out, mom or dad gives them the complete third degree. Unless of course, you are one of the lucky ones that have easy going parents.

As for at school, freshman get teased quite a bit. They way they talk, dress, and act are all ridiculed. Sometimes freshman do act immature, but often times they act no different than anyone else and still get laughed at.

Other than a few problems, most freshman say that they love Homestead, and that this year was the best ever!!

ADVANTAGES

Being a freshman has many advantages. For one, it is a big change from Junior High, and most people say that it is a change for the better. While in Junior High you are treated somewhat like a child, in High School much more freedom is given.

It is also great to meet many new people, and to make new friends. Because Homestead is bigger than most Junior Highs, there are many new faces and new experiences. For instance, going out on the weekends, the High School dances, and going to the football games are all things that were not enjoyed in previous years.

When a few freshmen were asked what they liked best about this year they said that they loved meeting new people, and going to all the football and basketball games. Some said that they loved having an open campus, so that they did not have to eat cafeteria food for lunch every day. Despite all the bad things that are said about being a freshman, most people thought that it was a lot more fun than they had expected it to be.

Chicago Scenes

Booze, extra-marital sex, drugs, murder and fast living are what can be expected from the next musical, director Shareen Clarke revealed.

"Chicago" a 20's musical with a vaudville theme, will be presented in March. The show, written by Fred Ebb, is about one-time vaudville stars who compete for publicity by committing crimes.

"The more showy and outrageous the crimes, the more the public admires them," senior Sharon Amacher explained. Sharon plays a merry murderess who has killed her husband.

"If you have enough razzle dazzle, then you could hid the fact that you are a bad person inside," is how senior Dave Shodiss, who plays Amos Hart, summed up the theme of the play.

Talent is the first consideration. "After the audition, we knew we had the talent it took," Clarke said.

Secondly, Clarke decides if as many students as possible can participate. Since "Chicago" requires a large cast and crew, it also passed on this aspect Clarke said.

The cost of the production is the third consideration. Clarke estimated that "Chicago" will cost about $3,000 to produce.

The fourth element is if the show is technically possible. This includes scenery, lighting and special effects, all of which Clarke feels will be outstanding.

Because this show was originally written for adults Clarke felt some editing was necessry.

"It was really disgusting in some parts," Sharon stated. "We changed it to more amusing things, which makes some people more comfortable with their parts," she added.

Junior Sue Foerster who is the head of the costume crew feels that the costumes will be excellent.

"The costumes are worth dieting for," Tina said. Most of the members of the case expressed enthusiasm about the coming production. "The cast is working really well together." Sophomore Jennifer Lewis continued, "It's a good mixture of people."

THE HONORABLE

John Plungy

Dining with Flip Wilson at Benihanas was something John Plungy didn't expect to be part of his job when elected Mayor of Cupertino in August, 1983.

Since becoming Mayor, Plungy, head of the history department, has been busy with conferences, banquets, luncheons, and even studying.

According to Plungy, he was invited to the third anniversary celebration of Benihanas at Vallco Fashion Park. It turned out that the founder of the Japanese restaurant brought along his good friend, Flip Wilson, and Plungy was able to dine with the comedian.

Before attaining his position as Mayor, Plungy was elected to Cupertino's City Council in 1980 and now serves the city in both capacities.

Plungy estimates that thirty hours a week go towards both is political positions. "I have to be prepared for conferences just as my students have to be prepared for discussions in my class," Plungy said.

The position of Mayor has earned Plungy a new respect. "I'm the same person but people seem to be impressed with the title."

His new position has also provided him with funny incidents. Plungy explained, "My wife and I were in an airport coming home from a cruise. Our flight was delayed and we ended up talking with three men. They found out we were from Cupertino and one said, 'We take care of all your mail. We run the post office.' So I said, 'Well that's interesting, I run the city.'"

Plungy has also enjoyed meeting famous people such as Milton Berle, Speaker of the House Thomas ("Tip") O'Neill, and Walter Mondale.

Plungy is beneficial to the school as well, according to Dick Fulcher, social studies teacher. "He gives credibility to Homestead and adds to the dimension of the school."

When Plungy decided to run for city council, his teaching stimulated and assisted him. "I've always had an interest in politics, and teaching Government kept up that interest." "It's also one of those things you could go through life saying, 'What if?'"

When comparing the two jobs, the Mayor said, "They complement each other. I bring a wider and more humanized background to the classroom that can enrich my teaching. From teaching, one deals with a diversity of people and perform and present material to large groups."

The biggest question in the minds of Plungy's friends and colleagues seems to be: Will John Plungy run for state assembly?

Ken Crump, social studies teacher, believes he will. "My prediction is that he'll run for state assembly in the future, but he'd have to pick an opportune time."

From Plungy's own comments it appears that the only thing standing in his way is the money involved. "Yes, I'm interested, but the big question is the financial support.

"If I feel it's a proper opportunity at a proper time, I'll run tor state assembly."

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Susanne Karlak

Very Cosmopolitan

Denmark, Venezuela and Canada may seem unrelated, but for Spanish teacher Susanne Karlak they all served as homes.

Before moving to Palo Alto, California in her senior year of high school, Karlak had experienced the unique cultures of three different countries.

She was born in Denmark and moved to Venezuela when she was 8 years old. She was placed in a Spanish school with no prior knowledge of the Spanish language. "I remember the absolute shock of not understanding," said Karlak.

After learning Spanish, Karlak attended an American school in Venezuela through the eighth grade. Wanting to continue her study of English, she went to live in Canada for a year with a family there.

Through all of her traveling, Karlak has formed a special feeling for the United States. "I have a unique view of the marvelous country we have. This is where I want to live," said Karlak.

Although Karlak intends to remain in the United States, she still "holds a great deal of love and affection for Venezuela." Karlak said, "I like the warmth that Latin people show." She also admires their culture, especially Latin music.

Karlak began her teaching career at Homestead when it opened in 1963. She taught for seven years then stopped in order to get married and raise a family.

Seven years later Karlak realized that she wanted to continue her teaching. "It dawned on me that teaching is the ideal job," she said with a smile. Karlak stressed that teaching gives her the best of two worlds.

She believes that she is more sensitive to students needs and feelings now that she has a family of her own.

Karlak stated that a foreign language teacher is always on stage. Although she finds "performing for five hours a day" to be very draining, this teaching method is received well by her students.

Karlak cites the main advantage of teaching it "being in contrast with so many really wonderful people." She emphasized that not many jobs offer that relationship.

STUDY HALL RETURNS

The tardy bell rings, roll is taken and a quiet chatter engulfs the room. Some begin their assigned task while others get an early start on their lunch. Today's assignment: Study and do homework for other classes. Study Hall has returned to Homestead.

The revival of Study Hall comes after an increase in loitering on campus and thefts last year.

Sunbathers in the quad were common last spring, according to assistant principal Nancy Madson. It was too inviting to other students. "More and more students cut their classes as the year progressed," she said, "Students weren't using their time wisely."

She added that Study Hall benefits students by creating an environment conducive to study.

Another problem that Study Hall solves is crime both on and off campus, Madson believes.

Statistics for the area around campus show a drop in daytime crime, according to Madson. Locker thefts and bicycle vandalism have decreased significantly as well.

Senior Kristine Doering said, "I think that it's really unfair," referring to the new requirement.

Madson justified the mandatory attendance saying, "We (the school administration) are responsible for the students and we should be able to locate any student at any time."

Heather Burley, senior, agreed. "They're liable for us, if a student was out wandering and got hit by a car the school would be in trouble."

Madson said that the main problem is getting people to attend. "We have a list of everybody that doesn't have a class and we are in the process of tracking them down," she said. Study Hall wasn't required last semester because complete lists weren't available until very late in the semester.

Students with a free period, one or six, are exempt from the requirement. They can come late or leave early, according to Madson. "We want students to have consecutive schedule," she said.

Laura Jorgensen, junior, "I come (to Study Hall) Because it is required. It can be a good time to do homework." She added that most people, however, talk and eat their lunch.

Madson said that campus supervisors Tony Green and Tracy Butler take attendance at the beginning of each period but don't remain because of their other duties on campus.

She noted that the campus has already begun to change. "There are fewer students wandering on campus and the campus is more attractive," Madson said, adding "We expect 100 percent of the students to comply."

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Team Looks Toward Next Year

This season, the varsity football team was acquainted with loss. After struggling through academic eligibility requirements, the squad dove through a 0-10 season. Many players were injured in the process.

Coach Tony Green led the team with his unbounding optimism but he was destined for disappointment, even with the sparkling performances of juniors Paul Marcy, running-back, and Stave Sullens, wide-receiver. Both of these players ranked high as Peninsula high school yardgainers and will be a welcome boon to next year's team.

High spirit managed to pervade the campus this fall and many happy faithful fans were unaware of the scores. At least the football players had good snacks of Friday mornings from their secret pals.

JV FOOTBALL

Sad, But Not Sorry

After struggling with academic eligibility requirements, the Mustang JV football team wallowed through a 0-9-1 season. Like their varsity counterparts, the JV squad included a large majority of inexperienced players.

Also like the Varsity team, the JV's had an impressive running game. Standouts James Transphilo, freshman, and sophomore Rolly Hastings are both expected to contribute as positively to the HHS ground attack next year as they did this past season.

Spirit Strengthens Teams

"We had a lot of fun," bubbled senior Wendy Zubrick of the varsity tennis team. The weekly dinners that the team had, sparked the spirit that was apparent throughout the season. Hallmarking another colorful year, both girl's teams exhibited extraordinary unity as the varsity and the JV crusied into third place DAL rankings with records of 11-5 and 6-6 respectively.

Singles player Lisa Bauer, sophomore, was this year's varsity MVP and the only Homestead player to enter CCS competition. Junior Mary Beth Bray spearheaded the team spiritually, an effort that was recognized by awarding her the team MIP title.

When the weather permitted, Homestead's consistently good play put the teams in close contention with the leaders of their league. Hopefully, next year's teams will continue the tradition of hard work, close friendships and hard play that was established this year upon the battered Homestead tennis courts.

Fish Fare Well

Led by All-leaguers Chris Pekary and Jack Thompson, the varsity water polo team plunged straight into the thick of their stiffly competitive season with high-flying exhuberance.

They emerged with an overall DAL ranking of third place with a 10 and 5 record.

Under the sparkling leadership of seniors Stuart Jackson, Pekary, and Thompson, the Mustang poloists were never daunted in their quest for the win. Other outstanding performances were contributed by Pascal Cohen, senior, Mike Hiddleson, junior, and Daryl Wells, the lone sophomore on the team.

The frosh-soph team also had an admirable season. Pascal Cohen commented that the "outlook for next year's team is fantastically encouraging."

Swimmers . . . A Stroke Ahead

This years swim team had a strong season pulling third in the league with an 8 win — 2 loss record. Their battle for second place was a 2 point let down which gave Saratoga an undeserved spot above Homestead.

Team unity and spirit was at a high point this year. Patty Kendall, awarded most inspirational, brought to the team their psych song, a medely sung into a microphone at each meet. This shattered the spirit of their component and boosted the excitement of their supporters.

Along with spirit, Homestead's swim team had talent. At each meet they seemed to pull ahead at the end with their best events: 500 free-style, 100 back stroke, and 200 breast stroke. Backstroker Mary Doolittle was awarded most valuable player, And Kristen Kwan most improved. The medley relay team which included Mary Doolittle, Laura Bookmeiger, and Daphine Meulhe stroked themselves to an All American time this year at CCS.

"This improvement from last year" as Kristin Kwan sees it, "was inspired by the strong freshmen teammates. Their high abilities made everyone try harder." This obviously produced a gratifying effect . . .

An outstanding swim team!

Girls Stick To It

Falling into fourth place in the league for the fifth year, the girls varsity field hockey team sported some really strong players this year.

Kristen Scheel, co-captain with Kris Barnes, was voted most valuable player of the season. Sophomores Lisa and Amanda Bishop and junior Chris Ryan strongly supported Scheel's exceptional leadership. Especially spirited Kerri Mingus was chosen most inspirational.

JV dropped into fifth place in the league. Sandy Pearsall, Homestead graduate, coached her First season with JV. Leading a strong defense, Mona Stoupe was voted most valuable player. Cheering on her team unfailingly was Beth Peouff, chosen most valuable.

Talent Barely Missed

Thirteen all-league runners stampeded across the finish line Nov. 15 on the hilly 2.95 mile course at Crystal Springs, ending the Region II finals and marking the end of the 1983 season for Homestead. Sadly, no one qualified for CCS.

Coach Joe Mangen was disappointed at the team's lack of umph, missing CCS by a measly 12 points, because this is the first time in years that Homestead hasn't had an ambassador there to run.

With Junior Chris Richards selfishly injured at the beginning of the season, the varsity boys had to pull it together if they wanted to do well as a team. Unfortunately, the team was running under an ill-fated star.

The frosh-soph boys came in 3rd at DAL, winding up a successful season. Mangen believes that who ever coaches next year will have a very strong season.

Practice Pays Off

Hard practice throughout the summer and the excellent coaching of Mr. Edwards, their new coach, led this year's varsity team to a successful season.

A record of 7-5 allowed the team to clain third place in the DAL. They placed behind Fremont and St. Francis who have both been among the top teams in the state.

Homestead's team had four players who received All-league recognition: Celia Winkler, first team, Janie Fong, second team (and Homestead's own MVP), and Sharon Fitzsimmons and Jeanine Miller who both received honorable mention.

Spirit on the team was enhanced by the crazy gifts that were exchanged by secret pals on game days. Celia Winkler was chosen by the team as the most inspirational player.

Improving With Time

After a slow start, the JV team ended the season by defeating every team in the DAL. During the first half of the season the team's only win was against Saratoga, but in the second half, the JV team beat every DAL team — except Saratoga!

Leaders of the team were Carol Abe (MVP) and Kim Nelson who both made the All-league team. Ruth Holt received honorable mention.

The team should fare well next year and will have good talent and size to replace the vacant varsity spots.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

WOW! What a Team!

Skill and Unity were both overwhelming this year. These important qualities embedded in Homestead's Varsity Basketball team brought them to the consolation win of Wilcox tournament and the CCS — the first time HHS ever made CCS playoffs.

The players believe their coach had a lot to do with both their playing ability and confidence. John Franza always believed they could beat anyone, and placed high expectations on the them. This brought the team together to work hard.

It was at those boisterous games were the stands were jammed, that the team believes they played their best. Memorable dunks by McPherson and Sullens were seen and also a 3/4 court shot make by Sullens. After these exciting evenings the team would get together and watch the game on film. Here their togetherness was greatly felt.

Obvious to all, many were deserving of awards. Those included were: Dan Sampson — All League CCS, first team All League, and Deanza League MVP, Steve Sullens — second team All League, Rob Haber and Craig McPherson both — All League and Honorable Mention. A team like this is one to be proud of!

A Rebuilding Season

It seems like the same story with Homestead's basketball teams this year and the boys JV team is no exception; they are young and inexperienced. It ended the season with a 3-7 record and tied for fourth.

The team expects to do better next year because this year was used to "re-build" the team. They had a lot of sophomores that were playing organized basketball for their first time.

Unity, A Necessity

Homestead's wrestling team had a tough year. With a one win — five loss record the team was farely disappointed. Yet still, Homestead is proud to be the holder of Frank Smith, first DAL's and first CCS, and Jim Maughan, second DAL's and 4th CCS. So obviously, this misfortune cannot be blamed on the individuals alone. It is instead the result of the lack of team unity and unorganized practices.

All wrestlers were basically left to work out on there own, gaining only strength individually. A general output from the team is the regret they feel for not having the importance of the "team" brought into their grasp. The only way to succeed, is to succeed together.

If you were on the wrestling team draw your own team picture since the team never got together for a group picture.

Boys Come Up One Short

Again this year the boy's varsity soccer team just missed a chance to play in the CCS palyoffs. The boys had to settle for third place after a DAL playoff loss to Lynbrook.

The talent on this team was extremely good. This is evident by the number of players that were chosen for the all-league team. First-team players were seniors John Pereira and Jeff Reisdorf, along with junior Doug Dupin. Senior Bob Ferguson and junior Dave Lopez earned a spot on the all-league second team.

Within their own team, the members felt that captain Bob Ferguson was the Most Valuable player, Igor Huljev was the Most Improved, and Dan Sonnichsen, Most Inspirational.

A Fun Filled Season

Fun was the high point for Homestead's soccer team this year. Players from all grades got along well, and many did excell. All League players were Lisa Dorsey, a sophomore, Chelle Pello, a senior, Meghan McKenna, a senior, and Kristin Jones, also a senior. Two awards were given to special members of the team: Most Valuable Player — Meghan McKenna and

J.V. GIRLS SOCCER

Most Inspirational Player — Chelle Pelle.

Together with the effort this team contributed, many moments of enjoyment were produced. Visions of "Jonesy" taking out that Saratoga player will remain with all, not to mention this team's technique of showning spirit at Saratoga — Who will ever expect a big "H" would be on the Saratoga soccer field?

All in all, their game record may not have been the best, but good times and team unity were prominant, especially in the last few games!

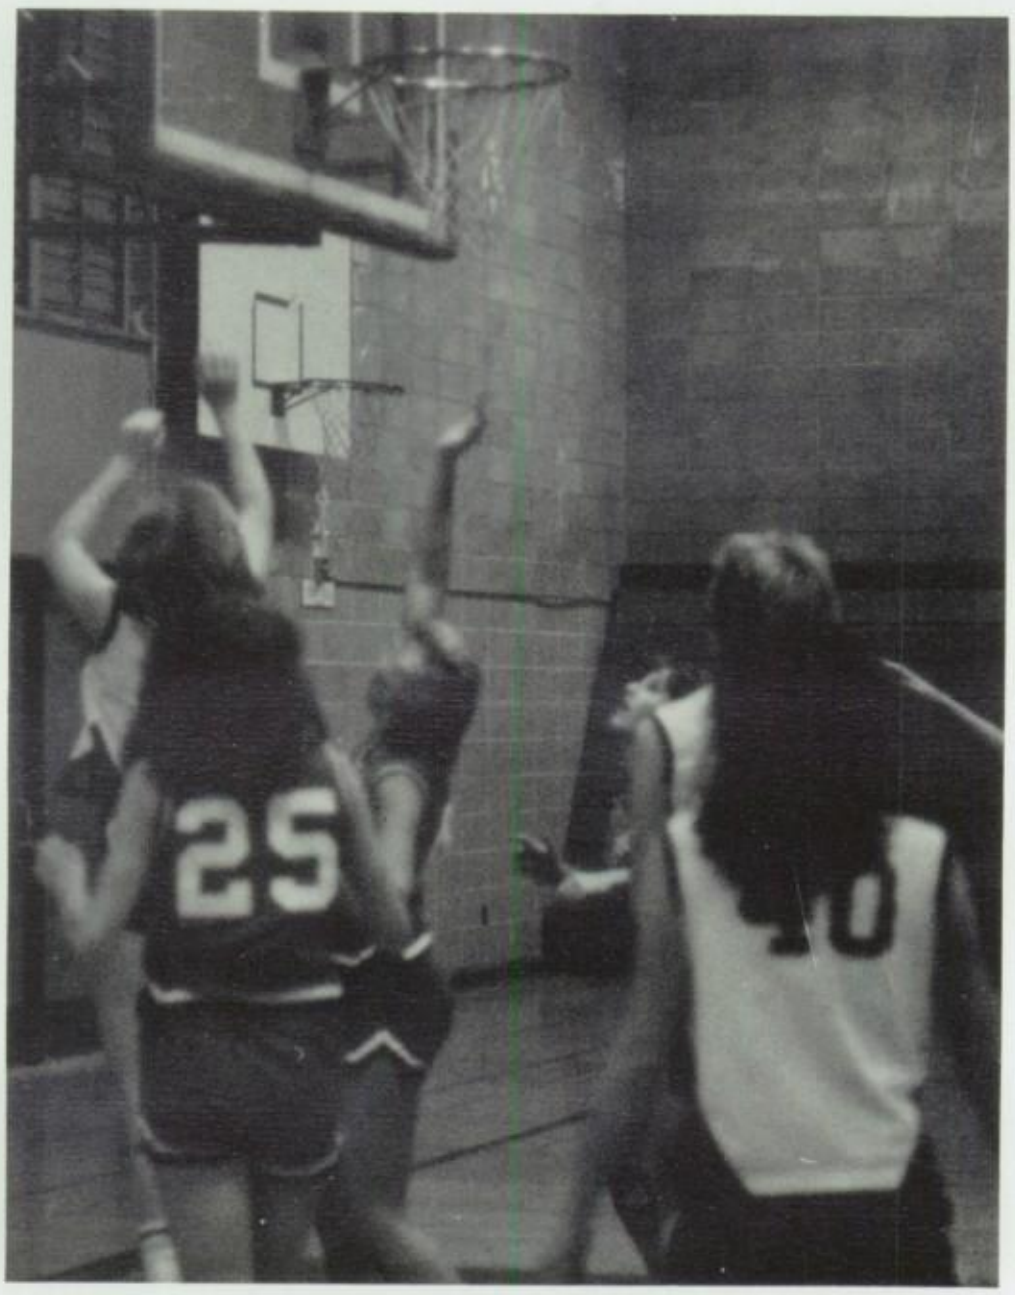
Young Team Does Well

The girls varsity basketball team did very well this year. They were a very young team, with only one senior, but did well despite this.

Julie Szukalski and Linda Hoffman led the team this season. Both of them made all-league, first and second team respectively. Szukalski also received an Honorable mention from the all-Penninsula team. The team's most improved player was Laurie Shuken.

Coach Ernie Dossa looks forward to a better season next year, possibly winning the league. The girl's tie for third place this year was not bad, but next year, with the loss of only one senior, the team will be much more experienced.



Hard Work Pays Off

Coach Joanne Shimoguchi led this year's JV basketball team to second place in the DAL. "She [Shimoguchi] was tough, but it all paid off," quoted one team member. Like the Varsity team, the JV was young and inexperienced, but they worked hard for their second place finish.

On the court, Michi Morrison led the team and received MVP for the season. Venicia Abe also played a big part in the team's success with her enthusiasm and was voted the team's Most Inspirational Player.

Winter Practice, Spring Wins

After practicing for much of the winter and playing in a winter league, the varsity team hopes to do well this year. The team had a 4-1 record after five non-league games, but now the competitive DAL will disclose their fate.

Mike Hiddleson and Tracy Kuykendall will help to provide much of the team's offensive power this year. The pitcher/catcher duo of Erik Newquist and Chris Vodanovich should help a strong defense along with pitching by Roy Valdez and Paul Machle.

SOFTBALL

Softball, An Experience

With Donna Chavez, a tough coach who knows what she wants, this year's softball team had their work cut out for them. A young team with only six returning players, two of which began their varsity career as freshmen last year.

On the softball field concentration is heavy, every thought must be on the game. (Hmm, does that mean not on '57 Chevy's?) Tension grows in those come back situations, creating the push the team still put forth to succeed.

Softball is a team sport, like many others, in which throughout the season each player will experience high points and low points, both of which are feelings included in life itself. To go through this is growing, growing as a team and as an individual.

Strong Start May Indicate Good Season.

Going into league play, the Homestead Junior Varsity Baseball team looks strong. In non-league play, they have won 3 and lost only 1, which may indicate that they could finish near the top of the league this year.

Offensively, Steve Hiddleson, Todd Reese, and Darrel Johnson should be strong. Backing up the offense will be pitchers Mike Woodward and Scott Erickson. The team's three captains, Jeff Taylor, Dan Pirafalo, and Reese, will lead the team with their skill on the field as well as off the field.

Practice? At Homestead?

Homestead's swim team this year was a closely knit team, sewn together with many close friendships. Team unity at meets definately has a positive affect on a team's performance.

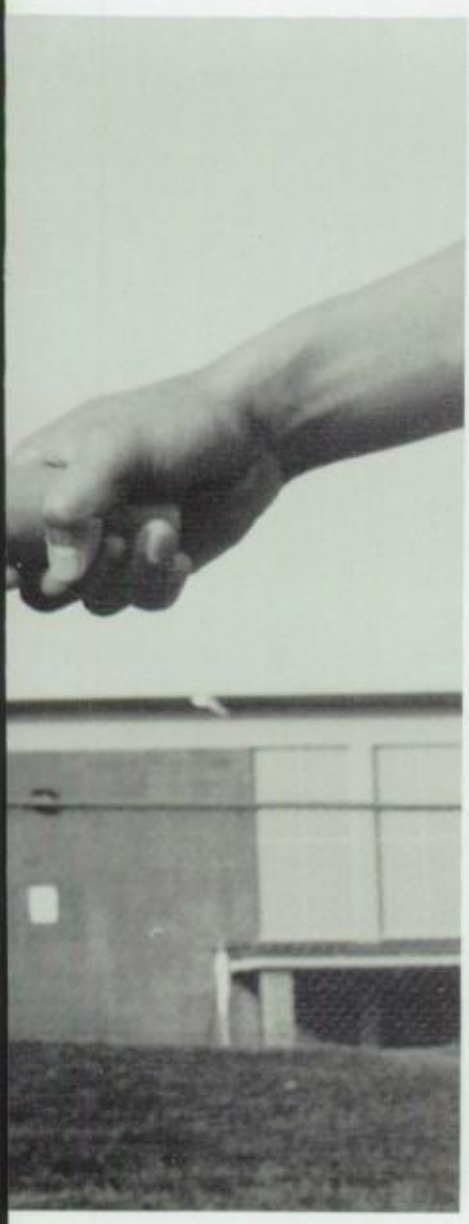
Unity at practices was a different story. Afternoon practices consisted of very few. This was due to the fact that many of the swimmers were also involved with other swim teams, outside of school. Yet still, their. Luckily, the time and effort put into those other teams war transferable to Homestead's meets.

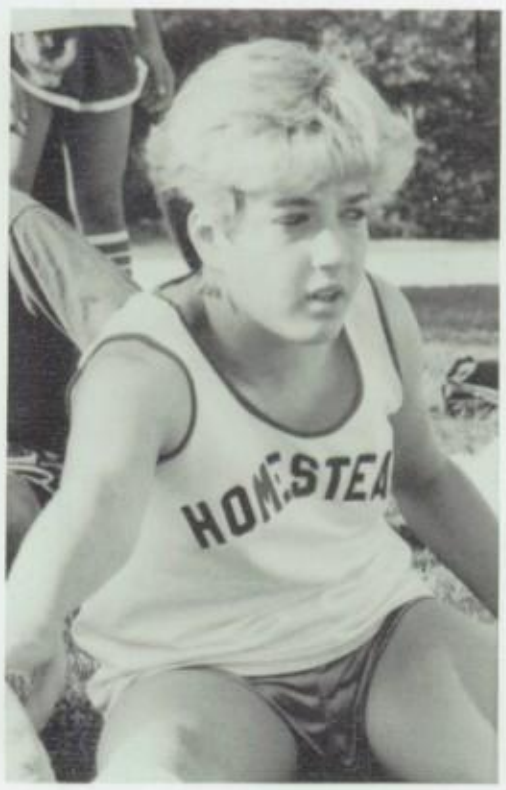
TRACK AND FIELD

Team Unity

The unity on this year's track team is very obvious. During workouts, each member helps the other members when there is a problem iwth their running, throwing, or jumping. During their meets, they cheer each other on when they are not stretched out on their beach blankets trying to get a tan.

Strong performances this year should be made by seniors Margaret Ruden, Kim Miller, and Peggy Naughten. Also juniors Chris Richards and Michelle Pentz should do well in their events.





Boys Tennis

Something New

This year Homestead's tennis team had a change in conduction of practices. Disapline was applied to such actions as cussing and team quarrels. This must for respect and team cooperation was pushed by the team's new coach.

In the past, boy's tennis had been coached by a member of Homestead's PE staff. Finally, this year the team received a true tennis coach. This already strong team believes this type of coaching is beneficial and one more advantage sure couldn't hurt!

May 11th marked a memorable event held to pay great tribute to those former Homestead students whom have excelled and lived up to the ideals in which became models for us all to live by. On that day we honored Marilyn W. Basham, a former head varsity cheerleader of the class of '64, who made a powerful statement concerning our great potentials as individuals, our self worth, and that we all can make the difference by working together to build a great future with the foundation of strong spirit and goals that start here at Homestead High. We also honored Judith Boyer, of the class of '64; Doug Bosco, '64; Gary Cavali, from the class of '67, a former editor of The Epitaph, where quality is still a standard; and Steve Wozniak, from the class of '68, a famous entrepreneur in electronics, who talked of the three F's that we all must have to lead a happy and proficient life; food, fun, and friends. We then gave tribute to S. Ito, 62-79, who was said to have been a large part of Homestead, and thus the event was dedicated to him. All of whom have made great accomplishments that were built upon their experiences at Homestead High.

The event was a success. There was a sense of togetherness as we all stood to make the attempt to sing the National Anthem. All of the speakers concentrated on one main theme in which we all, here at Homestead High, shall uphold Homestead's great tradition and proud fighting spirit, symbolized by the vivacious Mustang, the key to success and happiness.

Only time will tell if we, ourselves, shall reach goals of wealth. Though we all can accomplish great happiness through the strong spirit and unity stresses here at Homestead High.
